

GRADIENT DEPOSITION OF LOW-K CVD MATERIALS

ABSTRACT OF THE DISCLOSURE

[Para 47] A dielectric layer for a semiconductor device having a low overall dielectric constant, good adhesion to the semiconductor substrate, and good resistance to cracking due to thermal cycling. The dielectric layer is made by a process involving continuous variation of dielectric material deposition conditions to provide a dielectric layer having a gradient of dielectric constant.